No Biohazards

No Geometric Hazards

Devoid of Entities

Description

Level 37.88, referred to as "Natatorium Daydream" is a partly mythical level. A phenomenon on this level reportedly slows or even stops the drain on a wanderer's sanity, as this level has a quite subtle texture. This level has no reported locations that have a single fenestra guiding to the outside of this level, though there are some theories that the outside is a sky with an endlessly wide chasm directing down to an ongoing void.

In some cases, wanderers have reported experiencing strange feelings considered by the inflicted to be "unexplainable" or "Unimaginable". Several explorers have reported what they believe to be navy colored soul spirits following one around. These interactions have always been harmless though it is possible they are just hallucinations.

As depicted in the picture above the article, most parts of this level consist of mostly large cubes that make up for the walls. This also applies to the roof, just in lesser quantities. Additionally, every block on the roof has a large hole in the middle, making it an outline from a bottom view. In extremely rare circumstances, you can find helpful objects such as Almond Water for hydration, although dehydration significantly increases in time to occur in this level.

Zones

Circular Solid Concourse Destination of Emptiness

Main Description

The Circular Solid Concourse is a 1000 feet (300 meter) long corridor with modern curvy constructs representing the area. In the circular walls, you can come across circular and smooth cylinder openings in the wall with a black line in the centrum. There can also be glass lightings on the circular arches that hold up the roof, and lights on the roof, too.

In the end of the hallway, you will be led to a large room with at least 5 containers full of almond water, and every time one leaves, the almond water stocks up again if almond water is swallowed.

Entities

Level 37.88 is entirely devoid of any entities.

Colonies and Outposts

Natatorium Daydream Mega colony

- The population count is 25,039.
- The Natatorium Daydream Mega Colony is friendly, but currently unavailable for trade.
- Welcoming newcomers into the group.
- Established in 2021/8/12, which is about 3 months after the level discovery.

Like Level 399, is it currently pointless to form new communities.

Recovered Log:

As of my timeline in the Backrooms, I have never come across a level, so wholesome, so calm, so impressive, so affirmative, as this haven.

I remember no-clipping into this level when I was being chased by an overflow of Smilers in a class 5 level. This was like God's gift, and it was like I couldn't cause interrogation over this. This place is absolutely consequential, outstanding. If one says that this place is dogsh, then they are dogsh in my sight. I do not care if it is extremely rare to come across helpful objects and supplies, and I don't care if it is extremely liminal in some areas. I will stay here for years. Maybe even forever, unless there is an uncover to a better paradise. I'm not gonna listen to those ass eaters who want me to get out of this level and go crunch my time into sh by doing some stupid mission in a Class Deadzone level. I will just ignore them. I don't care if I get fired or anything.

I need a break from traversing through all those fking entity overloaded levels. I need at least ONE FKING BREAK. I don't care what the M.E.G. says or anything, because I am not doing anything until I even get into a level that's higher than class 2. I don't need to face the fking truth like Level 699 does, but I doubt that you even do. If there are 3 places that are paradise, this level is included in this list.

- Unknown M.E.G. Explorer
